

How to Sign Up to Mastodon on a Computer Web Browser

(Instructions should work for any Mac web browser as well)

1. Go to <https://mastodon.thirring.org>. Click “Create account” on the right.

2. A screen will come up showing the server rules. Click “ACCEPT”.

3. Sign up with a display name, username, e-mail address and password.
  - a. Display name is like the name people know you by on Twitter (like Satori, or A_Daily_Violet).
  - b. Username is like the @name in Twitter (like @Satori232323). Type in your user name. For example, if you want your Username to be Cenobyte99, just type Cenobyte99. (No need to put the @ in. Mastodon adds it later.)
  - c. Make sure CAPS LOCK is not on.
  - d. Be slow and careful and write it down if you have to!
  - e. Try to use a similar Display name and Username to the one you have on Twitter so your friends can find you.

The screenshot shows a dark-themed sign-up form for Mastodon. At the top, it says "Let's get you set up on mastodon.thirring.org." Below this is a paragraph explaining that with an account, users can follow anyone on the network. The form contains several input fields: a name field with "jason", a handle field with "jason" and "@mastodon.thirring.org" (partially visible), an email field with "jason@thirring.org", and two password fields, both filled with dots. A checkbox is checked, with the text "I have read and agree to the privacy policy *". A large blue "SIGN UP" button is at the bottom. Below the button are links for "Log in" and "Didn't receive confirmation instructions?".

5. You will be sent a confirmation e-mail. Go to your email. In the email, click “Verify E-mail address”. Log in. (It might log you in automatically).
6. Once the e-mail has been verified, you will be able to log in normally through any web browser using <https://mastodon.thirring.org>, clicking “Sign In” then using your e-mail address and password.
7. You’re done!
